Puppy mill investigation continues; e-mail created to gather information

The Sheriff's Office continues to thoroughly investigate the puppy mill case in Snohomish County. An e-mail has been created to gather additional information that might help the investigation.

Anyone who has done business with Wags 'n' Wiggles or owner Renee Roske (purchasing a puppy, for example) is asked to e-mail detectives at puppyinvestigation@snoco.org and describe their experience.

Detectives will review the e-mails they receive and contact the e-mail writer if they need more information.

Other than the recently established e-mail address there is no new information to release about the investigation.
